Christian Grandparenting Network Proclaims September 8, 2013 as Grandparent's Day of Prayer.

Christian Grandparenting Network is asking grandparents all over the world to unite in prayer for their grandchildren on Sunday, September 8, 2013. This date is the official United States National Grandparents Day designated by a Senate proclamation signed by President Jimmy Carter in 1978.

Lillian Penner, National Prayer Coordinator for the Christian Grandparenting Network states, "Our grandchildren are living in a desperate moral and spiritual climate navigating in a world hostile to truth. Satan has launched an aggressive attack our families, schools and our nation to desensitize our children to truth and righteousness. Perhaps at no other time in our history is a call to prayer more urgently required than it is today for our grandchildren."

The mission of Christian Grandparenting Network is to promote effective grandparenting, which is intentional about discipling our children and grandchildren know and follow Christ wholeheartedly. CGN is issuing a call to all grandparents to join hand with other grandparents in their churches, community and around the world for an intentional day of prayer on behalf of the next generation.

Grandparents are being asked to join the movement by signing up online or on Facebook to let us know they will be part of this important event this September. Those who sign up you will receive a free download called "Communicate Your Faith to Your Grandchildren" from Lillian Penner's book, Grandparenting with a Purpose: Effective Ways to Pray for Your Grandchildren.

CGN is also looking for volunteers to organize and lead a prayer group in their church this September. For more information go to www.gocgn.com or contact Lillian Penner via email at lpenner@christiangrandparenting.net.
